

TOGETHER WE ACCOMPLISH MORE

INTRODUCTION TO
SITA MEMBERSHIP

SITA

SITA is the world's leading air transport IT and communications specialist. Nearly every airline and airport in the world does business with SITA and nearly every passenger flight relies on our technology.

Owned by more than 400 air transport industry members, SITA has a unique understanding of the industry's needs. Our members include airlines and airports all over the world. They help to shape SITA's strategy and align it with the real needs and challenges of air transport. We work with our airline and airport members to provide solutions that make a difference, innovating collaboratively with multiple air transport stakeholders.

By working together we accomplish more. We aim to explore new technologies with potential benefit to the entire community. We also ensure that IT systems work together through shared infrastructure and cost-effective use of technologies. And working with a wide range of air transport associations in global and regional forums, we aim to deliver common approaches and set new standards that help the industry as a whole become more efficient.

As a member, you can participate in the exchange of ideas and information that will define the technology needed to meet the future demands of a fast-changing industry. You will also contribute to the overall economic vitality and progress of SITA and join a collective voice that makes us responsive and accountable for the service and operational performance we provide to you.

WHAT SITA OFFERS MEMBERS

We invest

SITA invests in IT infrastructure, applications and services that provide the foundations for long-term industry growth. That investment, taken in consultation with members, provides customers with competition and choice in the marketplace across the broadest range of industry solutions. SITA spends around 7% of revenues on research and product development using new and emerging technologies.

We reduce costs

As a not-for-profit organization, SITA returns to members each year any over-recovery we make in providing network services to the industry.

By deploying shared infrastructure and applications to provide common systems and delivery processes, SITA generates substantial economies of scale benefits for the industry.

We add value

SITA offers its members an extended range of free or discounted services on some of our critical products and services. These offers help build a stronger industry.

We connect

SITA manages the backbone of the air transport industry's information systems, connecting around 13,500 sites and has a presence at more than 1,000 airports around the world. We offer services everywhere, including remote and challenging locations.

We are neutral and independent

SITA is a neutral, geographically non-specific organization with global representation from over 200 countries and territories around the world. This broad-based ownership structure gives us a unique means to build partnerships and generate co-operation, supporting the deployment of industry-wide standards and technologies.

WHAT MEMBERSHIP MEANS FOR YOU?

As a member...

- You gain visibility and add to the collective voice that helps bring the air transport community together.
- There are many opportunities for you to exert influence and have your say on air transport industry issues.
- You can tap into the largest community of air transport IT executives in the world. Exchange ideas, share best practices and discuss business strategies with more than 400 other cross-industry members.
- The money you spend on SITA services remains within the community. As a cooperative organization owned by the air transport industry, the money we receive is used for the benefit of the industry.
- You can contribute to a global industry body that develops technology solutions to business challenges.
- SITA works with its members through the SITA Lab and other partnering mechanisms to identify and exploit emerging technologies that can meet industry needs.
