

SKYFORM ONLINE – THE SIMPLE SOLUTION FOR SPEC 2000 MESSAGING

The aerospace aftermarket supply chain community, including airlines, OEMs, airframers, MROs and others have long used ATA Spec 2000 standard messages to exchange e-commerce documents related to their supply chain business transactions. Buyers need to issue purchase orders, while sellers need to issue shipping notices and invoices.

To support the MRO community's messaging requirements, SITA has continuously enhanced its suite of products and services dedicated to air transport industry (ATI) messaging. We are your single access point to reliably connect and collaborate with the largest community of industry professionals using a fully managed service - today and in the future.

SKYFORM ONLINE

SkyForm Online is an end-to-end managed service for the quick and simple exchange of commercial information between buyers and sellers of aircraft spare parts and is fully compliant with the Spec 2000 XML industry standard for electronic trading. In addition to its XML capabilities, SkyForm Online can access SITA's Spec 2000 message transformation service when messages need to be exchanged with legacy Spec 2000 users. SkyForm Online users can connect with the widest possible Spec 2000 trading community.

Having evolved from the original SkyForm desktop solution, SkyForm Online is taking messaging efficiency to a new level by enabling workflow management. It provides a user-friendly and streamlined workflow, automatically copying important data from one form to another. Quotes from suppliers can easily be converted to orders. Orders from customers can just as easily be converted to shipping notices and then invoices. All this can be done without having to complete time-consuming forms from scratch.

FAST, EASY AND COST-EFFECTIVE TRADING

With SKYFORM Online you can:

- Trade electronically over SITA's global community.
- Transact with any trading partners that use Spec 2000 compliant applications for order administration and invoicing transactions – whether XML or legacy based.
- Increase efficiency as all messages are exchanged in an industry standardized syntax.

SkyForm Online is available as an addon to SITATEX Online, the leading browser-based operational mail application designed specifically for the air transport industry.

WITH SITATEX ONLINE, YOU GET:

- A highly intuitive layout that both new and existing customers will find easy to use.
- Flexibility for an increasingly mobile workforce, including a responsive design and full optimization for touch screen devices.
- An intelligent operational messaging solution, with an emphasis on simplicity, security and performance.
